Navy Still Plans To Build 22 Thresher-Type Subs

Structural Design Will Get Study

Methodical Probe Into Sinking Will Be Pushed

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Navy intends to go ahead with construction of 22 more submarines like the lost Thresher, but is making a new study of the entire structural design. Secretary Fred Korth said Friday.

Korth told newsmen the design study for this class ship, begun by the Bureau of Ships, is aside from and in addition to the general investigation by a naval court of inquiry into the whole subject of the loss of the Thresher.

This investigation includes inquiry into the structural integrity of the Thresher after her overhaul in the Portsmouth, N.H., Navy Yard.

Underwater TV

As part of this investigation, the Navy said Friday it may use underwater television to scan the sunken nuclear submarine if its hull is located at the bottom of the Atlantic.

The Navy has embarked on a methodical and painstaking course in its effort to find out what sent the newly overhauled craft to the bottom with all aboard: 129 men.

Korth returned Thursday night from talks with officials in Portsmouth and New London, Conn. He also flew over the scene of the sinking and talked by radio with officials aboard the search ships.

The Navy secretary announced officially Thursday night that the Thresher and her crew were lost, an act which has the effect of declaring the 129 persons aboard the submarine legally dead instead of missing.

Korth said he did this for two reasons: 1. because "we shouldn't hold out hope for the dependents" of the men when there was absolutely no chance that they were alive, and 2. to clear the way for a prompt beginning on payment of death benefits and collection of insurance.

Congress Will Talk

Some speculation was reported in Congress over whether construction of another attack submarine should be authorized to replace, numerically, the lost Thresher.

Korth said he was unaware of this, but he did recall that the Navy initially asked for eight atomic-powered attack submarines under the fiscal 1964 program. The Defense Department reduced this to six; the House voted authorization for eight, the Senate six. The difference now is to compromise.

Asked his current views about the number needed, Korth said that while he accepted the Defense Department's budget action, he still believes eight are needed.

Air Force Musters Out 13-Year-Old Boy

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—The Air Force mustered Charles S. Griscom out of the service Friday. Griscom is only 13 years old.

Griscom's stepfather, Staff Sgt. James Hessler of Newburgh, N.Y., arrived at Lackland Air Force Base Friday and identified "Junior Birdman" Griscom his stepson.

The Air Force listed Griscom as Ronald Merry, who is a neighbor of the Hesslers in Newburgh, sailed. The submarine had been considered of a minor nature and repairs were completed.

Merry's identification papers and installation of new equipment for enlisted in the Air Force March 28 at Baltimore, Md. He came to Lackland the next day.

Inspects Debris

Vice Admiral Bernard L. Austin, chairman of the naval board of inquiry investigating the loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher, inspects debris found floating over the sunken ship. Two rubber gloves, pieces of cork and fragments of yellow plastic are being studied by the inquiry board. The rubber gloves were described as the type worn by the men in the reactor compartment of submarines. (AP Photofax)

Thresher Sinking Probe Moves Into Craft Home Port

Navy Court In Portsmouth Now

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (UPI)—A Navy court of investigation into the sinking of the submarine Thresher moved Friday to its home port where the doomed vessel underwent repairs prior to the final voyage.

The court of two admirals and three captains flew here from New London, Conn., to resume its investigation into the disappearance of the nuclear submarine with 129 men aboard.

A spokesman for the court said the initial investigation here Friday afternoon was "exploratory." He said a hearing will be held Saturday.

The spokesman said the court members will tour the Portsmouth naval shipyard and presumably talk to workmen involved in overhauling and repairing the Thresher prior to its ill-fated departure Sunday.

The court will examine, among other things, a sealed bag of debris from the Thresher. This included samples of an oil slick, bits of cork and plastic, and a pair of gloves of the type used in the nuclear reactor section of a submarine.

The court convened amid a backdrop of reports that the Thresher was damaged slightly on two occasions during tests off Florida after its commissioning Aug. 3, 1961. The damage was considered of a minor nature and repairs were completed.

Rear Adm. Charles J. Palmer, commanding officer of the Portsmouth navy yard, said he was completely satisfied with the condition of the Thresher before it sailed. The submarine had been undergoing overhaul, repairs and reassembly.

He said the compartment "was almost beat to pieces" and the court opened its inquiry Thursday, about 24 hours after the Thresher last was heard from.

Paul E. La France, 25, a former crewman, said he "would have been afraid of it."

No Cause Found For Criminal Step In Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has found no cause for federal criminal action in the crash of an Imperial Airlines plane near Richmond, Va., in 1961, it was disclosed today.

The Nov. 8, 1961 accident took the lives of 74 Army recruits being flown from Baltimore, Md., to Columbia, S. D. Only one pilot and the flight engineer survived out of the five crew members and 74 passengers aboard.

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) report, issued about three months later, blamed poor crew coordination, judgement and lack of knowledge for the crash. It also accused Imperial of conducting "sub-standard" operations.

The Justice Department's finding was disclosed in a letter written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Herbert J. Miller Jr. to Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., Monday.

"As you know, the department's authority in this matter is limited to the specific question as to whether the facts warrant federal criminal action," Miller wrote. "... We have concluded the facts will not support federal criminal action."

Miller said the Justice Department had studied all of the information obtained by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) and the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) before reaching its decision.

He said the most recent information was obtained Jan. 15 and a decision was made after that. He did not disclose, however, precisely when the decision was made.

Case has shown a particular interest in the matter because many of the Army recruits killed in the crash were from New Jersey.

Pershing Missile Fired

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Pershing missile, jolted over rugged terrain to simulate rough treatment it would experience in combat, was fired on a successful 200-mile flight Friday.

A tracked vehicle such as that which would transport Pershings in wartime jolted the missile over ground near the Martin Co. plant in Orlando where the weapon is produced. The missile then was dismantled, packed in canisters and carted 50 miles by truck to Cape Canaveral.

At the Cape, the Pershing — still in canisters — was subjected to more rough road treatment before it was assembled and erected on the tracked vehicle for firing. The Army announced success of the mission.

Auto Production Figures Cited

DETROIT (UPI) — The auto industry is scheduled to produce 154,368 cars and 29,104 trucks this week, Ward's Reports said Friday.

Production last week totaled 160,609 cars and 29,988 trucks.

So far this year, the industry has built 2,251,860 cars and 426,361 trucks, compared with 2,056,160 cars and 358,688 trucks a year ago.

The statistical agency said although this week's output will dip 3.9 per cent from the 1963 peak of 160,609 last week, output of cars for the entire month of April is certain to be the second-best in history.

Plant Production Rises In March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial production, relatively steady for several months, rose in March to 120.4 per cent of the 1957-59 average, up from 119.4 in February.

The index, reported today by the Federal Reserve Board, stood at 118.9 in January.

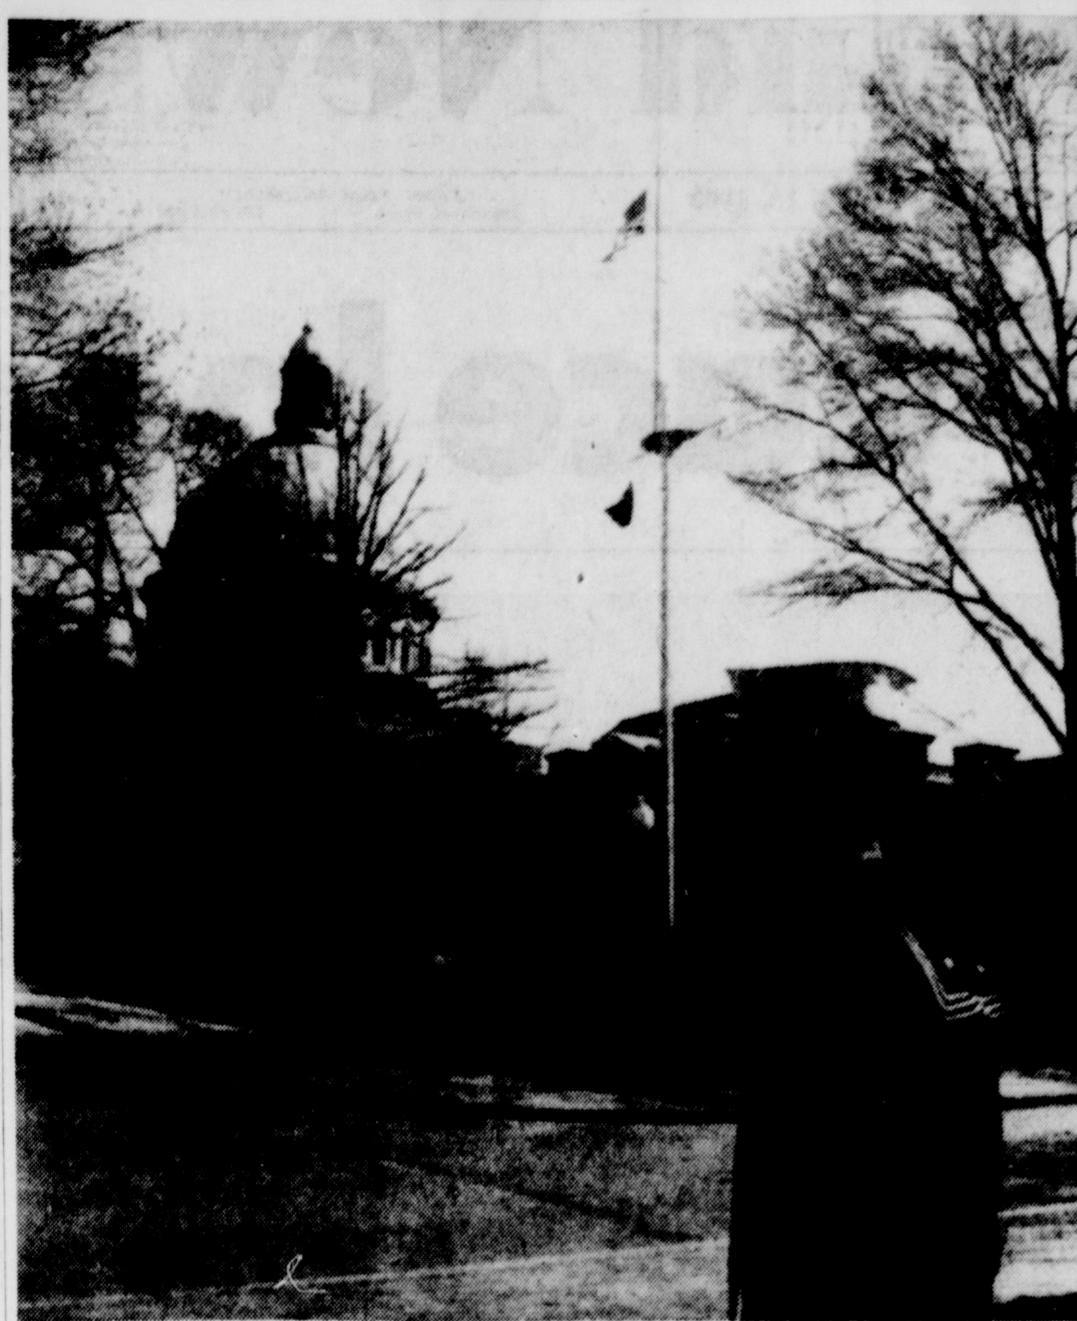

The board said production of consumer goods, which reached a record level in February, registered another slight increase last month, and output of business equipment remained high.

Retail Sales Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department announced Friday that retail sales totaled $4.8 billion during the week ended April 6 — a figure that was 3 per cent lower than the previous week's total.

The department said the decrease was caused by a decline in the sales of durable goods.

However, it said the sales for the reported week were still 6 per cent higher than the comparable week in 1962. The report said that retail sales for the last four weeks have been running about 8 per cent higher than for a comparable period last year.

Four Greek Ships Give U.S. Marshal Problems

BALTIMORE (AP) — The U.S. marshal of Maryland, Frank Udoff, doesn't have the old wild west shooting to worry him. But he's learned how to draw.

Udoff had to go to a bank yesterday to borrow $55,000. It probably was one of the last things he thought he would have to do when he became marshal last year. But neither did he visualize becoming "Admiral of the Fleet."

Udoff found himself in charge of four ocean-going freighters two months ago. Udoff's private business is insurance and bonds. Along with the ships, he got 36 seamen required to maintain heating and other equipment.

The seamen, naturally, expected to be paid. But the U.S. marshal had no such funds. The main job of the office is to haul federal prisoners back and forth from court to jail.

"The government is not in the shipping business," said the harassed Udoff. "I am not authorized to maintain a fleet of ocean vessels and no money is available for this purpose."

U.S. District Judge Rosel C. Thomsen got the message. He pioneered in maritime court history, naming Udoff a special receiver and authorizing him to borrow money from a bank.

Udoff used it to pay off the seamen yesterday and heaved a tremendous sigh of relief. The four ships are shut down and are to be sold at auction.

They had belonged to Manuel E. Kulukundis, 63-year-old Greek shipping magnate. Sixteen of his vessels registered under the U.S. flag were ordered seized for $5 million in debts the government claims was due in connection with construction of three supertankers.

Judge Thomsen approved the auction sale of the four ships in Baltimore after Kulukundis failed to offer him a satisfactory reorganization plan. One ship already has been sold for $2.6 million to Marine Traders Inc.

Udoff: He still has one problem. The Coast Guard is hounding him to remove one of the ships from a pier out to anchorage. There is gas in the hull and the Coast Guard is fearful of an explosion.

"It will cost between $10,000 to $12,000 to de-gas the ship and the court does not want to spend the money for a ship which is expected to go on the auction block," explained the marshal.

"Peace Walk" Set In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Several hundred placard-carrying marchers are expected to stage a "walk for peace" in Baltimore Saturday.

The walk, calling for a nuclear test ban, is scheduled to coincide with similar demonstrations in other cities. It will be sponsored by Turn Toward Peace, a newly formed committee of area peace groups.

When the marchers reach City Hall Plaza, they plan to listen to several speeches — including one by Socialist Norman Thomas, chairman of Turn Toward Peace.

Tractors Take Two Lives In Accidents

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 5-year-old girl and a 50-year-old teacher were killed in separate Baltimore County tractor accidents Friday.

The child, Marjorie Cohen, died after an accident outside her Owings Mill home.

The victim's father, Jack Cohen, told police Marjorie was seated on the tractor as he tried to crank it. The tractor suddenly started, lurched forward and hit a tree. The child was trapped beneath the tractor when it flipped over backward.

Mrs. Marion Mahon of Boring, a vocational teacher at Montrose School for Girls in Reisterstown, was pinned beneath a tractor which overturned as she drove it on a slope of the school grounds.

Girls who had been cleaning stones from a field and loading them on a trailer behind the tractor, freed Mrs. Mahon and called police.

Detergent Problem Is Aired

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — A research engineer said Friday that the housewife's standby, the common detergent, has become a major problem in some parts of the country.

Dr. W.W. Eckenfelder of Englewood Cliff, N.J., told the 12th Southern Municipal and Industrial Waste Conference that it was not known whether the residue of detergents is "harmful to the health of the nation...that is a matter of conjecture."

However, he said there was a bill pending before the Congress which would forbid the sale of all present synthetic detergents.

The residue problem, he said, had become so critical on Long Island that action was taken to forbid the installation of additional laundromats in the area.

But Eckenfelder said scientists were experimenting with changing the present hard detergents into soft ones that can be disposed of "naturally in water and soil."

Episcopal Bishop Dies In Columbia

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — The Rt. Rev. C. Alfred Cole, Bishop of the Upper South Carolina Episcopal Diocese for 10 years, died Feb. 1, 1964, as secretary of the West Virginia Horticulture Society.

The 53-year-old minister left a position as Rector of St. John's Church in Charleston, W. Va., to become bishop here. A native of Washington, D.C., he attended Benjamin Franklin and Duke Universities.

Chantilly Airport Hurts Friendship

BALTIMORE (AP) — Passengers traffic at Baltimore's Friendship Airport during February showed effects of competition from the federal government's airport at Chantilly, Va.

The number of passengers using Friendship this year was down 27 per cent of February, 1962. Chantilly opened late last year.

The Baltimore Airport Board reported Friday that scheduled airline landings and departures were 12 per cent less this year than February, 1962.

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Mrs. Dorothy Lowe has thoughtful neighbors and they all like to help.

Two fire trucks, one fire rescue unit, three ambulances from their different ambulance services and a police car screened up to her home Thursday night.

She was treated and released for a bruised finger.

Manslaughter Plea Entered By Ind. Sailor

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (AP) — An Indianapolis sailor pleaded guilty Friday to a reduced charge of manslaughter in the slaying of an Indiana motorist whose body was found in a Pennsylvania field last summer.

The sailor, Gary D. Rardon, 19, was ordered to appear for sentencing next Friday. The charge carries a 2-to-21-year prison term.

Rardon told the court he shot James H. Smith, 23, Franklin, Ind., in a scuffle near Noblesville last July 6 after Smith made improper advances.

Rardon said he threw Smith's gun in nearby White River and drove east, dumping the body near Washington, Pa.

Rardon was arrested last December in New London, Conn., while absent without leave from the Navy.

Smith was employed in Pittsburgh and had driven back to Indiana for the weekend when the shooting happened. Rardon said Smith picked him up while he was hitching northeast of Indianapolis.

Gunman Kills Laotian Official

VIENTIANE, Laos, Saturday (UPI) — A high-ranking Laotian police official was assassinated by a gunman Friday, adding new fuel to the crisis in Laos which threatens to explode into new civil war.

Killed was Col. Khamti Visaphanong, a member of Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma's neutralist party. His political views were similar to those of the late Foreign Minister Quinim Pholsena.

Quinim, nominally a member of the neutralist faction but a close ally of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, was assassinated April 1 by a neutralist soldier assigned to guard his home.

D.C. Crime Rate Higher In March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The District of Columbia crime rate was 9.9 per cent higher in March than in the same month last year, Police Chief Robert V. Murray reported Friday.

It was the eighth consecutive month in which the crime rate increased, the report said.

Murray said the 2,113 serious offenses reported last month represented an increase of 190 cases over the number in March 1962.

Finding Skilled People To Be SRC Unit's Job

By JOHN T. KADY

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Road Commission has long been in dire need of more skilled personnel, and finding these people will be one of the duties of a new SRC personnel division which is in the process of being organized.

The man who is forming the new division is Kermit L. Bergstrahl, representative of Roy Jorgenson and Associates, a highway engineering and management consultant firm. Bergstrahl began the organization last August and hopes to set a completion date for early next year.

"We just don't have enough skilled people," Bergstrahl said. "You just can't operate an outfit this big without some mighty good talent around."

A comprehensive recruiting program, including visits to college campuses, will be one of the principal jobs of the new division.

Bergstrahl said in any good program, inducements to prospective engineers, draftsmen, etc., have to be made—but this doesn't necessarily mean that high wages has to be at the top of the list.

"We feel that these people should be given a better chance to gain experience and the rewards that go with it, like more responsibility, pay and promotion," he said. "You don't have to pay premium salaries."

Bergstrahl said he is also setting up a better division of work patterns within each department. Every major position will have a "job definition," in writing, which will include responsibilities, authority, and so on, he said.

"If you don't have this you have an atmosphere where people just don't seem to know what they are supposed to do," he said.

A training program is also being set up. Bergstrahl said "top management to the beginning typist" will go through the program.

About 200 personnel will be shifted to Civil Service. He said Civil Service now covers attorneys, engineers, right of way agents and appraisers and personnel officers.

Bergstrahl said he had received "tremendous cooperation" in his organization from SRC brass and added:

"We want to make this so attractive that people will seek the opportunity to work for the outfit."

Four Escape From Jail

RIPPLEY, W. Va. (UPI) — Four prisoners, including two soldiers from out-of-state, broke out of the Jackson County jail Friday. One was captured a few hours later in Parkersburg.

The inmate back in custody was identified as Jack E. Boyd, 27, Parkersburg. He was being held as a parole violator.

The other three still at large were Pvt. Robert Squillan, 21, of New York City; Pfc. Howard E. Brewer, 20, Diverton, Ill., and Willard Lee Bosley, 27, Gallipolis, Ohio.

Bosley was awaiting action of the May grand jury on an embezzlement charge.

Jackson County Sheriff Charles Coffman said the two soldiers were arrested south of Pt. Pleasant last Tuesday after wrecking a stolen car on W. Va. 2. The car had been stolen in Ravenswood, Coffman said.

The sheriff said the two soldiers were carrying forged "leave" papers which they used to fly from Germany to the United States about two weeks ago.

The Charter in 1632 to Cecil Calvert, Lord Baltimore, from Charles I of England, made him Proprietor of Maryland, thus giving him and the subsequent Lords Baltimore the sole power to grant land. Separated in 1638 from St. Mary's County, the earliest settlement in Maryland, Charles County numbers among its residents such prominent men as John Hanson, Thomas Stone, General Smallwood, Dr. James Craik, Dr. Gustavus Brown, and Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer.

Among the places to be visited are La Grange, owned by Mr. &

Mrs. John M. Lorimer, was built about 1763 by Dr. James Craik,

Surgeon-General of the Continental Army, who helped attend George Washington in his final illness. Of architectural interest are the end walls of brick and the front and rear facades of white clapboarding. An arch with fluted and reeded supports breaks the length of the hallway which has a wide walnut stairway with a massive handrail forming a spiral around the newel post. White Hall, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nitze, is part of the original grant of 1,000 acres to Nicholas Causin who named it "Causin Manor." Ignatius Causin, appointed a Justice of the Charles County provincial court in 1672, built the house for his daughter, Mount Air, belonging to Mrs. J. Edward Burroughs Jr., was built in early 1700 of clapboard over brick nog, characteristic of Southern Maryland architecture and Charles County in particular. The original Carpenter locks and the unusual Cross and Bible doors are intact in the house which affords a panoramic view of the Potomac River as it is approached by a winding road lined with dogwood trees.

Tatten has a center wing of 3 stories (the original house) and a two-story wing with a separate kitchen, connected to the main house by a hyphen. Built in 1830 by Zepennah Hoskins Turner, grandson of Governor John Hoskins Stone, it is now the property of Mrs. J. William Roberts. The present house at Ellwood Farm was built by Marshall Chapman, a member of one of Charles County's oldest families, in 1857 as a present to his bride, the former Ellen Stockett, of Annapolis. The rooms are spacious and a graceful stairway rises from the entrance hall to the third floor. Also open, is an old log building which is being restored as a guest house by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Hill. Two large European linden trees stand at the entrance of The Lindens. The land was originally part of "His Lordship's Favour," patented by Hugh Tress in 1697 as part of "Zakah Manor," surveyed in 1661. This frame dwelling, built by the Gardner family in 1830, has been restored by its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich H. Steffens and contains old Georgian pine floors and large fireplaces in the main rooms.

Two churches are included in this Pilgrimage. Christ Church, William and Mary Parish, one of the thirty churches established by the Maryland Assembly in 1692, and Trinity Parish, established by the Royal Charter in which King Charles I granted to Lord Baltimore the right to send ministers of the Church of England to serve the Protestant settlers.

Lunch will be served at Christ

Church Parish Hall from noon to 3 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the first house visited. Tour books are included with tickets or may be obtained upon request to Pilgrimage Headquarters, Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel, Baltimore 2, Maryland.

Mrs. Alice Hawkins spoke on handwriting. Mrs. George Minnick displayed bedroom slippers she had made. Mrs. Ora Meyers reported the arts and crafts meeting she attended in the extension office. She also distributed cookie recipes.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mae Hansel, Mrs. Edgar Hansel, Mrs. Anna Holsinger and Mrs. Arthur Linnenbrogger.

SUNRISE IN HOLLYWOOD

This is the city where pretense is a profession . . . where emotion is an art. This is Hollywood's famous Bowl at sunrise on Easter morning.

Thousands raising their hearts and prayers to the Lord of Reality . . . of Truth!

Don't be deluded by the artificiality which sometimes claims the center of life's stage. There is a hunger in the souls of men which our air of well-being cannot hide. There is frustration, futility, despair—and man's calculated unconcern cannot disguise it.

To our churches—to worship, hymn and prayer—we turn when we tire of dreaming and pretending. Can we claim any glory greater than that we are the children of God? Can we own any allegiance bolder than that we are the disciples of Jesus Christ . . . Risen, Victorious?

Easter is the climax of life's drama . . . on which the curtain never falls!

Doug Sanders Leads Greater Greensboro Open After 36 Holes

Player Falters; Marr In Second Place With 136

Putting Mastery Gives Sanders 6-Under-Par 65

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., putted his way to a six-under-par 65 Friday and a three stroke lead in the second round of the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open tournament.

Sanders missed the first three greens but parred each of them, which "gave me a little confidence."

"It makes a great deal of difference the way you start out." He said in telling of the six birdies enroute to his 35-30-65 which gave him a 36-hole total of 133 over the par-71 Sedgefield Country Club course. He took 30 putts.

Three Strokes Back

Three strokes back with a 136 was Dave Marr of New Rochelle, N.Y., who was gunning for his first victory since last year's Azalea Open in Wilmington. Marr, 29, had six birdies and two bogies for a second round 34-33-67. He missed only three greens and used 32 putts.

A field of 141 pros and 10 amateurs was cut to the low 65 pros and ties with the 10 amateurs staying in automatically. The final round of the four-day tournament will be played Sunday.

Dick Mayer of Palm Desert, Calif.; Kel Nagle of Australia; Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., and Don Fairfield, Perdido Bay, Fla., were tied at 137.

The tournament cut-off point Friday was 146.

Five strokes back of the leader with 138 were Sam Snead and Jimmy Clark.

Snead Has Trouble

Snead shot a 66 both days, seven times winner of the Greensboro Open, the West Virginian ran into trouble on the back nine. He double bogied the par-7 number 13 hole but picked up an eagle three on number 14 to go one over par with a 36 on the final nine holes.

Jay Hebert and his brother Lionel stood at 139 along with five other pros.

Little Gary Player, the first round leader, had a two-round total of 140. The South African was three over par with a 36-38-74 and among his troubles Friday was number 17, a par-4, 403-yard hole.

Hits Green Nicely

Player hit the green nicely with his approach and his 20-foot try for a birdie skinned about two feet past the pin. His second putt refused to drop going past about three inches. He attempted to backhand the ball in passing and went about a foot by one the upper side.

He then took his time, lining the fourth putt up carefully and sinking it, giving him a double bogey six on the hole.

Dave Wilson Wins 39 No Also Eligibles
Woodson Is Honored Story About Stengel

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN Lefty Dave Wilson tossed a 4-hitter and struck out eleven in hurling West Virginia University to a 7-2 victory over The Citadel at Charleston, S.C., Thursday, it was the Keyserite's 39th mound triumph since he made his debut with Keyser High School in 1957.

In 1957, 1958 and 1959, Dave posted records of 2-0, 5-2 and 6-0 for a three-year mark of 13-2 for Coach "Tack" Clark's Golden Tornado.

Twirling for Potomac State College in 1960 and 1961, Wilson won ten games and lost three. In 1961 he was 2-4 for the last place Franklin team in the Twilight League and chalked up seven wins against five losses for Lonaconing in the Pen-Mar League.

The Keyser southpaw made his debut at West Virginia U. last year and turned in a 3-0 record for the Mountaineers. Then he wound up the year with the Frostburg Merchants and was 4-4 for the Mountain City club in the Pen-Mar League.

Wilson has won two games for the unbeaten Mountaineers this season. He has fanned 17 batters in 18 innings, yielded ten hits and four runs.

Over seven seasons Wilson's record now stands at 39 wins and 18 losses.

WALTER E. "WOODY" Woodson, Jr., who will be remembered as a former area sandlot baseball star and basketball, baseball and soccer coach at Bruce High School from 1949 through 1951, is listed among the "Sports Greats" of Hampshire County in the project conducted by the Lions Clubs in conjunction with West Virginia's Centennial program.

"Woody" played baseball around this section from 1940 up to 1958 and among the teams he played with were the Queen City Brewers, Cumberland Colts, Romney, Barberville, Cumberland Old Germans, Frostburg and Westvaco.

He pitched and played first base and in the outfield.

Born on a farm near Springfield, "Woody" attended Beall High School while making his home with a widowed aunt in Frostburg. At Shepherd College he played football, basketball and baseball and he also took a post-graduate course at the University of Maryland.

When he was playing for Shepherd College he blasted a Homer over the right field wall against Wilson College in a game played at Griffith Stadium in Washington.

An employee of Allegany Ballistics Lab since 1951, "Woody" now resides at Short Gap, W. Va.

Other Hampshire countians who will receive "Sports Greats" certificates are:

Tom Allen, George Baird, Donald Cookman, Roscoe Dean, Richard "Dick" Harmon, David Kirk, William Levings, Donald Maphis, Bill Maphis, Rollin McCleary, Garrett Parsons, Shaffer Staub, Alvin Swick, Loy Wagner and Willard Ansel.

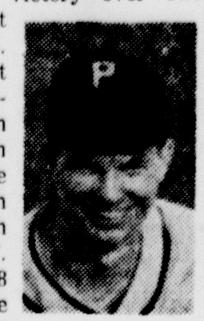

SHEPHERD DOWNS has eliminated the "also eligible" list from its entries, a move designed primarily to assist trainers but which will prove useful to race fans, according to Robert G. Leavitt, general manager.

Beginning with tonight's opening card at the Charles Town, W. Va., track only ten horses will be drawn into a race, cutting out the four also eligibles that have been selected in previous years to fill in case of scratches among the top ten.

Shenandoah is the first track to the mid-Atlantic racing community to adopt the shorter fields.

Under this system trainers will know that their horse is either in or out. They will not have to sit around until scratch time to see if they will run in a given race, and can enter for a later program.

Fans, Leavitt says, will have fewer entries to contend with in making their early selections and will not have to worry about a horse moving up from the also eligible list "to upset their handicapping."

Post time is 7:15 nightly at Shenandoah.

THE OTHER DAY somebody asked Bob Turley what it really was like to work for Casey Stengel.

The big righthander from Lutherville, Md., now with the Los Angeles Angels said:

"It's like nothing else in the world. You can't explain Casey. He's either the luckiest or the smartest man that baseball has ever known."

Turley then cited an example of how the Stengel mind functioned when he was masterminding the Yankees.

Bob was in what appeared an easy game against the Tigers a couple of summers ago. After 4½ innings, one out from the minimum distance a starting pitcher must work to qualify for the victory, Stengel replaced Turley.

Bob hardly expected it. The Yankees were leading, 7-0, and the Tigers had made only two hits, but as Turley said you can't explain Casey. While waiting for the reliever to come in, Turley asked what was wrong with the way he was pitching.

"The contract hasn't been signed, but we have reason to believe it will be," the Titan spokesman said.

Werblin and four business associates took over the New York AFL team with an outlay of $1 million after it had been placed in bankruptcy by Harry Wismer, the chief shareholder, and his associates.

Coached Colts 10 Years

Ewbank coached the Colts for ten years, starting in 1954. His 1958 and 1959 teams won the NFL championships and in 1958 he was voted pro "Coach of the year."

Last January he was fired, being replaced by Don Shula.

Turner succeeded Sammy Baugh last year as Titans' coach. He has one more year to run on a $20,000-a-year contract, which apparently will be bought up by the new owners.

At the press conference, the new Titans' owners also are expected to announce a new name for the team. They are said to be interested in starting a new slate all the way.

PVC Baseball Standings

KANSAS CITY — Officials of two Southeastern Conference schools said Friday, in replies to questionnaires, that the schools' athletic teams would be permitted to play against Negroes at home or away.

Mississippi State, another SEC team, said it would not play against Negroes at home. It had no comment on whether MSU would play against integrated teams on the road, although the Maroons' basketball team broke tradition this year and met integrated Loyola of Chicago in an NCAA regional tournament.

Separate questionnaires were sent to all SEC schools by the University of Kentucky, which is considering possible integration of athletics, and by sportswriter Larry Beock of the Courier-Journal.

Replies in the affirmative were Georgia Tech and Tulane. Both said they would play against integrated teams at home or away, and would continue to schedule Kentucky if it desegregates athletically. Negroes have attended Kentucky for several years.

Chancellor Alexander Heard of Vanderbilt would not answer the questions directly, but said, "It is public knowledge that in recent years Vanderbilt has played against integrated teams."

Howell Hollis, acting athletic director at Georgia, said the questionnaires were referred to President A. C. Aderholt, who was out of town. However, the State Board of Regents is the governing body for both Georgia and Georgia Tech, and Georgia's reply is expected to be the same as Tech's.

Officials of Louisiana State and Tennessee declined comment. No answers were received from Alabama, Auburn or Mississippi.

BOSTON AND BUFFALO TO PLAY EXHIBITION

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills and Boston Patriots will clash Aug. 24 in War Memorial Auditorium in an exhibition game matching two teams likely to give the Houston Oilers a strong battle for the Eastern Division title of the American Football League.

General Manager Dick Gallagher said Friday the game will be one of two home pre-season tilts. Early predictions make the Bills and Patriots solid contenders for the Eastern Division title won by the Oilers for two straight years.

Under this system trainers will know that their horse is either in or out. They will not have to sit around until scratch time to see if they will run in a given race, and can enter for a later program.

Allegany County High School League Opens 25th Season Thursday

Beall Champs Face LaSalle At Frostburg

Bruce At Ft. Hill; 7 Schools In Loop; Lawler New Coach

The Allegany County High School Baseball League will open its 25th consecutive campaign next Thursday with six of the seven teams slated to see action in games scheduled for Frostburg, Lonaconing and Cumberland.

Beall High's defending champions host LaSalle in the Mountain City at 4 p.m., Valley High's Black Knights entertain the Mt. Savage Indians at 3:30 and Bruce opposes the Fort Hill Sentinels here at 4 p.m.

Allegany's Campers are idle on Friday and do not make their league debut until Tuesday, April 23 when the Bulldogs will be met at Westernport. Flintstone High's Aggies will not be represented in the league this season.

Lawler New Coach

Only one change in the coaching personnel has been made since last season and that is at LaSalle where Bert Lawler makes his debut as mentor of the Explorers. John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, the dean of baseball coaches in the area, will continue to do the master minding at Fort Hill. Leonard Ritchie will be guiding Bruce for the eighth season. Enduro "Moose" Arnone leads Beall for the fifth campaign. Joe Carter starts his ninth season at Mt. Savage. John C. Meyers will guide the destinies of Valley High for the tenth year and Chester G. Payne will handle the reins at Allegany High for the sixth season.

In the past 24 years, Fort Hill has finished on top ten times and Beall is next with seven pennants. Bruce and Valley never have won a championship. Beall was the winner in 1962 when the league operated in two-divisions of four schools each. That plan was scrapped for 1963 following the withdrawal of Flintstone and the reduction of the number of teams to seven.

One Unbeaten Team

In the 24-year history of the league only one school finished a season undefeated and that was Coach "Ebbie" Finzel's Beall High 1951 nine which posted a 13-0 record. "Moose" Arnone, present Beall mentor, was the pitching ace of that team and hung up an all-time season record of 12-0. His 4-year league mark of 30-1 also stands as a record.

The only player to win the batting championship twice was Fay Often, of Mt. Savage. He won the crown in 1958 with an average of .453 and in 1961 his .621 was an all-time high. Ronnie Cage of Fort Hill hit .613 in 1959 and Joe Ranker of Allegany had an even .600 in 1961.

Fort Hill leads in batting championships with six, namely, Charley "Butch" Cross, Gary Wolford, Ronnie Cage, Jim Manges, Elmer Freeland and Paul Whitford. Allegany is next with five—Joe Ranker, Roy Perrell, Noyes Thompson, "Tommy" Powers, Bobby Williams and Franklin Shee.

Three Tied In 1958

The league has had co-champions four times while in 1958 Allegany, Fort Hill and Mt. Savage wound up in a triple tie for the title.

Here's a list of the past winners:

Gamecocks Defeat Terps In Eleventh

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)— South Carolina scored an unearned run in the 11th inning Friday and defeated Maryland 7-6 in a loosely played Atlantic Coast Conference baseball game.

Cody produced 15 Olympic swimmers and his teams captured three national championships. He moved to Southern California in 1949.

Cody first gained fame when he coached the "Cody, Kids" at the Portland, Ore. Multnomah Athletic Club in the 1930s. Several of his swimmers, such as Nancy Merki, one-time holder of every American backstroke record, and freestyle champion Brenda Helder, gained international fame.

Cody produced 15 Olympic swimmers and his teams captured three national championships. He moved to Southern California in 1949.

Cody was stricken Sunday at his home in west Los Angeles. Attendants at Saltair Convalescent home did not disclose cause of death.

Private funeral services are planned.

Red Wings Hope To Bounce Back In Home Games

DETROIT (UPI)— The Detroit Red Wings, two games down and faced with elimination in the Stanley Cup finals, were counting on home ice to bounce back in their best-of-seven series with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"Maybe home ice will pick us up," said coach Sid Abel. "I'd better, because if we don't take the next one, then I'm afraid it's all over for us."

The champion Leafs won the first two games at Toronto Tuesday and Thursday by scores of 4-2 and 4-2. The next two games will be at Olympia here Sunday and Tuesday. If necessary, a fifth game would be played at Toronto Thursday; a sixth game at Detroit Sunday, April 21, and a seventh game at Toronto Tuesday.

The winning run was one of seven unearned tallies as the two teams made 8 errors in their ACC opener.

The Gamecocks loaded the bases in the 11th on a single by Charley Williams, a force play, an error by Maryland shortstop Bernie Walter, a passed ball and an intentional walk to Dave Corley who had hit a home run in the 7th inning.

Then John Coleman, who pitched the entire game for South Carolina, hit a two-out grounder and Walter muffed the ball as Dick Mosely scored the tie-breaking run.

Joe Vezendy, who hurled the first 8 innings for Maryland, struck out 11 batters. He has whiffed 41 in 24 innings this season. The loser was Jack Lund.

South Carolina, 5-3 in overall competition, and Maryland (4-3) are scheduled to play here again Saturday.

Time For Change

NEW YORK (UPI)— P-s-s-t, keep it under your hat, but the chairman of the board isn't changing his socks.

Nor does Joseph A. W. Ingelhart, board chairman of the Baltimore Orioles, intend to do so until the club loses its first game.

Ingelhart has been wearing the same pair of mustard colored socks since the Orioles opened the season on Monday. The club has won three straight so far.

Any persons interested in enrolling in this program should do so by contacting the Cumberland YMCA.

Sentiment Will Ride With Bold Commander

May Be Last Horse Of Jim Fitzsimmons To Race At Laurel

LAUREL, Md. (AP)— Sentiment at least, if not money, will be riding on Bold Commander in Saturday's $25,000-added Chesapeake Stakes.

The 3-year-old colt is being shipped from New York for the mile and sixteenth race by Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons. The 88-year-old trainer announced Tuesday he is retiring finally.

So Wheatley Stable's Bold Commander may be the last thoroughbred trained by Fitzsimmons to appear at Laurel. He raced horses at the track when it opened in 1911.

Fitzsimmons sent down word that Bold Commander, a son of Bold Ruler, "is doing fine and should run well" in the Chesapeake. Bold Commander was second in the Hutchinson Stakes and out of the money in the Gotham in two previous starts.

Bold Commander is among 10 probable starters for the 41st renewal of the Chesapeake. Three of them, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Might and Main, William B. Robinson's Rural Retreat and Frank J. Carlin's Choice T., are long shot possibilities to go on to the Kentucky Derby May 4.

Rounding out the probable field are Dan Nicholas' Pivot, Locust Hill Farm's Knocklofty, Cecil B. Fischbach's Farewell Blues, Pat Mitchell's Mr. Clubhouse, Mrs. A. J. Girdano's Hot Dust, and Mrs. Bernie bond's Old Daddy.

King, Queen Are Selected

A capacity crowd attended a dance of the Ridgeley Teen Club Wednesday night at the home of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, sponsor of the teen organization.

The dance featured selection of a king and queen, with Louise Mattingly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mattingly of Carpenter's Addition, and Darwin Stonebreaker voted for the posts.

The queen was presented a carnation corsage, and the king, a carnation boutonniere. The hall, decorated by club members, featured the Easter motif with pink, yellow and green the predominating colors.

A prize was won by Paul Harris, Chaperones were Mrs. Elsie Leighty, Mrs. Kay Leighty, Mrs. Mary Chaney, Miss Kay Vandegrift, Mrs. Bertie Chandler, James Phillips and J. T. Derryberry.

Music was by the Frank Householder orchestra, the first time a musical combo was used for a Teen Club dance.

Meeting Planned On Camp Trips

Camping trips similar to those taken to the West Coast last year by two groups of students are planned again this summer, according to Victor McKay, director of the Allegany Campers, as the caravans were called.

A meeting for parents interested in sending their children on the chaperoned tours will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at Central YMCA. McKay said.

Two trips were made last year to the Seattle World's Fair, and films taken on those tours will be shown at Tuesday night's meeting.

Teachers, who acted as chaperones, and registered nurses accompanied the student groups last year. The same setup will be made for tours this summer.

College To Exhibit Marine Art

An exhibition of marine art was brought yesterday to Allegany Community College, according to Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president, who said the various items are on loan from the Mariners Museum at Newport News, Va.

The exhibit will be open to the public during school hours, beginning Tuesday and continuing through June 15. Included are 52 paintings, sketches and water colors, and three carved figures, including two figureheads.

The exhibit was arranged for by the Student Council of the college with the cooperation of the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts, Hagerstown.

Uphold gave him $55 and the Frederick County youth fled west toward Uniontown. State Police and Uniontown Police were alerted immediately.

LaVale Fire Unit To Hold Auction Sale

Rain or shine, the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department will hold its spring auction on Saturday, May 4 beginning at 10 a. m. with Brady Dolly as auctioneer, according to Paul Boch, president.

George Boch, auction chairman, said response from inside as well as outside the community has been heavier than in past years. A greater variety of items has been accumulated for sale.

Chairman Boch added that any person wishing to donate any time at all, regardless of size, should call 724-6806 or Mrs. George Kemp, hall caretaker, 722-0871. Several firms in LaVale have volunteered trucks which will be manned by firemen for the pickup.

At this week's meeting, Cromwell C. Zembower reported on the Allegany-Garrett County Association meeting he attended Sunday at Kitzmiller.

Zembower and Fire Chief James Loar said they informed the firemen that due to a federal law that became effective February 1 gas stations can no longer put flammable liquids in glass containers.

Gas can only be placed in metal containers and station attendants must put stickers on them, identifying the liquid.

Both Zembower and Loar commented that this law could save many lives and reduce fire loss.

Chief Loar reported that in the last 12 days, the fire department had answered 14 fire calls. At least four of these, he pointed out, could have been avoided if the home owners had used caution and observed the burning season regulations. The prime rule violated was burning before 4 p. m.

The fire chief said the fire company would willingly go to areas that owners wish to burn so they can act in a standby basis.

Loar also said all members of the unit are using seat belts in the company vehicles.

Nominated for delegates to the state convention in Oakland and the county convention in Ocean City were Loar, Zembower, Waverly Rice, Venson Self and Paul Boch. Two will be elected.

Zembower also reported that the company will sponsor outdoor rides and booths at the LaVale Plaza Shopping Center the week of May 6.

He also announced that the annual firemen's festival will be held on the fire hall lot for a week sometime in June or July. Confirmation on the rides must be obtained before a date can be announced.

George Hickle treasurer, said the company books being audited by a certified public accountant will be completed within the next ten days.

It was also voted to allow the Assembly of God Church and the LaVale Lutheran Mission to use the main hall. The former will be for a revival and the latter for Sunday services until permanent quarters are obtained.

Bids are being sought to paint the interior of the main hall, the basement and barbershop.

Youth Nabbed After Robbery

A Maryland youth was captured shortly after he held up a Marleyburg service station on Route 40 Thursday.

Pennsylvania State Police together with Uniontown Police picked up Donald George Dixon, RD 1, Clarksburg, Md., within sight of the Uniontown Police Station.

Troopers said Dixon, who was armed with a pistol and two hunting knives, held up James H. Uphold, 27, of RD 2, Confluence, attendant at the National Highway Motor Sales Service Station, just across the line from Garrett County.

Uphold told police that after filling the gas tank of the car being driven by Dixon, the youth flashed a .22 caliber pistol in his face and demanded "all your cash."

Hopes vs. Prospects In Latin America

Pan American Day, celebrated each year since 1890, falls on Easter Sunday this year. Recent events in Latin America give rise to belief that the immediate threat there is not Communism but anarchy. Stable government has rarely been a feature in Latin American affairs, but the disappointment in North America this spring is especially keen because the Alliance for Progress had given rise to so many exaggerated hopes.

Self-help and land and tax reform—the sine qua non of the Alliance—have been given only lip-service by most Latin nations. Yet the political emergencies have been so great that the United States has been driven into desperate improvisations with its aid funds. Only last month the Kennedy administration agreed to bail out inflation-harried Brazil with a $398.5 million loan to ward off monetary collapse and political upheaval. Brazil will be back for at least $200 million more this summer. Little of the U.S.-supplied "walking around" money of this kind can possibly result in the tangible projects that low-income groups can see with their own eyes.

Latin America is the fastest growing area of the world. Its population of 195 million people represents an increase of about 30 percent over the last ten years. A Department of State "medium projection" for population growth indicates that the region will have 303 million people by 1975 and 592 million by the year 2000. Latin America will have to double its real income in the next 30 years simply to maintain already grinding standards of living. These are the kinds of statistics which cast grim shadows over the observance of this and succeeding Pan American Days.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

April Is The Cruelest Month

By a coincidence of the calendar, this weekend is dedicated to solving a problem of acute spiritual contention. After rendering unto God the things that are God's at Easter service, more than one person will find himself rushing madly home to put in those last-ditch licks in figuring out the income tax they owe on Monday to Caesar. The glory of the season will be vitiated by the click of the adding machine.

It wasn't meant to be this way. Fifty years ago, when Congress was adding its first innocuous progressive income tax rider to the Underwood Tariff Act, lawyer Joseph Choate predicted that the 1913 idea of a top rate—7 per cent on anyone in the $200,000-a-year bracket—would, some day, go to 50 per cent or more. Mention of such a frivolous possibility enraged that paladin of liberalism from Idaho, the leonine Senator William E. Borah. Pointing at Choate, whom he deemed an unconscionable cynic, the Senator roared: "Whose equity, sense of fairness, of justice, does he question?"

As it turned out, Choate's prediction was on the low side and Senator Borah turned out to be Peter Pan. After that first feeble levy of 1913, the theoreticians of the progressive tax really got busy. The theoreticians, arguing from the economic concept of marginal utility, decided that the social utility of a rich man's—or even a middle income man's—last income dollar was much less than the social utility of a poor man's last dollar. This was irrespective of how the last dollars were used.

Such a queer view of the social utility of money could not stand up in a society which had its churches to support, its educational institutions to improve, its scientific research to encourage, and its business expenses to absorb. So, as the income tax became more and more progressive, its impact had to be blunted by the elaboration of a vast system of loopholes. To re-establish the true utility of dollars, no two "last dollars" in any given income tax bracket could actually be treated alike.

Today, the loopholes are the soul of a strange tax system under which the exceptions have become absolutely necessary. Dollars used to be dollars, all of them worth the same to any individual in terms of a metal of standard weight and fineness. But today no two dollars are alike. There is the basic exemption dollar. There is the charity dollar. There is the oil depletion dollar. There is the municipal tax-exempt dollar and the stock option dollar and the deferred pension dollar. There is the legitimate business luncheon dollar. There is the interest on the mortgage dollar. There is the medical expense dollar.

There is the capital gains dollar, a queer one that is worth more when it is six months old than when it is five. There is the dollar to be gained if you can get your child born at 11:59 p.m. December 31. And there is the social security dollar, which may be a practically free gift to you if you happen to have been blanketed into the program a few months before you were 65.

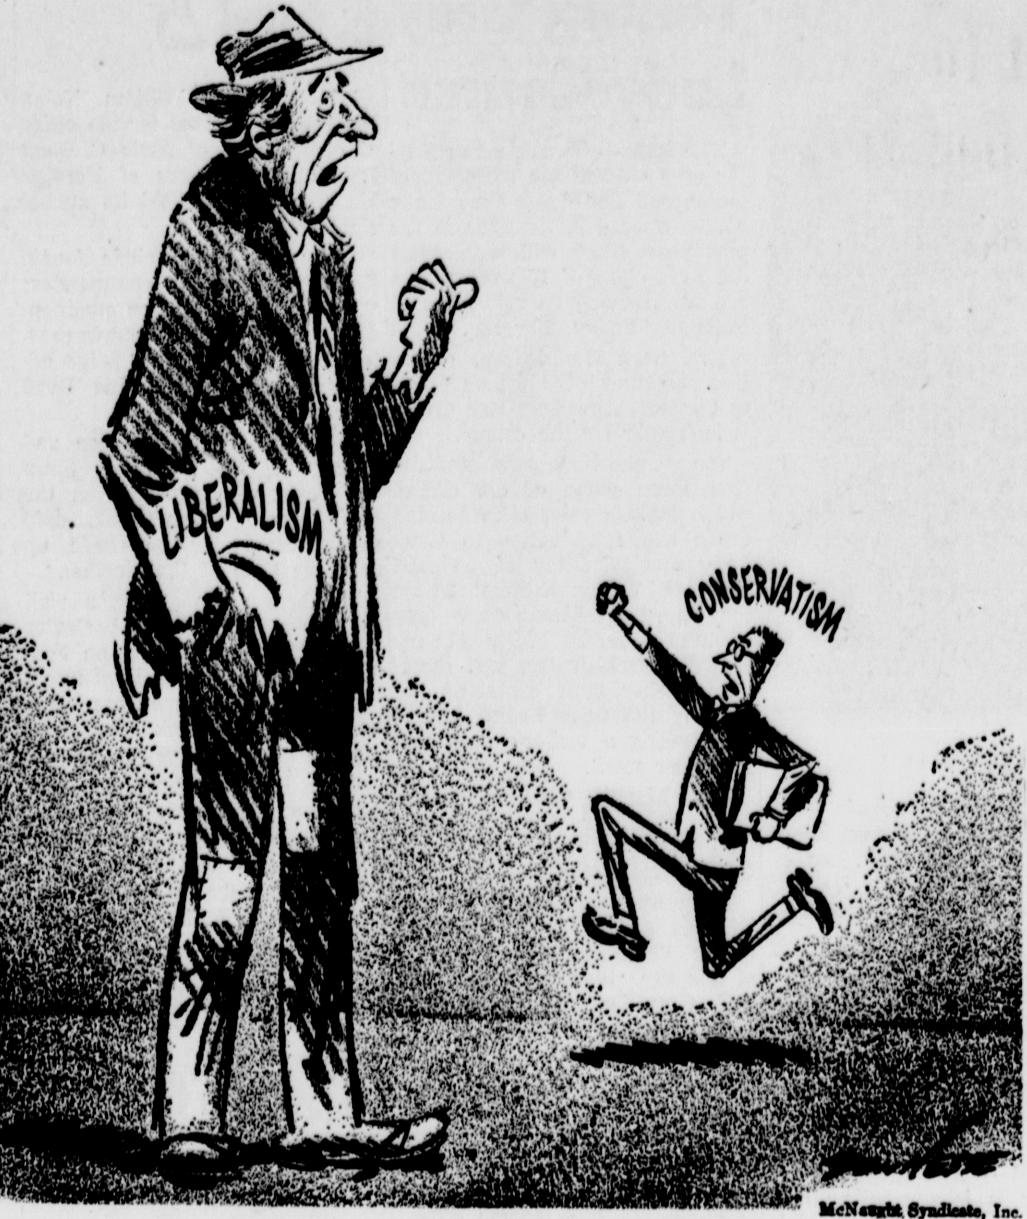

Naturally, when a system is based on a tissue of exceptions, it will produce all sorts of jockeying. But if all the loopholes were to be closed, it would not be only the proprietors of high-priced restaurants who would suffer. Nobody would have money left for the marginal graces of life. The loophole system is probably the best thing we can hope for as long as the progressive tax philosophy is dominant in the land.

Radical reformers hoped that application of this philosophy would help lift people's eyes from material things. But it hasn't turned out that way. In every nation that has replaced the old flat-rate tax system with the progressive system, the jockeying to get some material advantage that isn't taxable is intense. I recall the day when Malcolm Muggeridge, the English journalist, was about to return to London after a stint spent as a correspondent in Washington, D. C. "I'm going home to England," he said, "and I hope to find a job that will pay me in perquisites. They are the only things that have real monetary value today."

Not many would admit to hunting perquisites. But the reason why President Kennedy's tax reform proposals will not get to first base is quite apparent. If loopholes were closed, life would be too drab to endure.

'I Had That Energy Back In The Thirties'

Britain Lacks Sense Of Purpose In NATO

LONDON

By Joseph Alsop

Reporting a vacuum is neither easy nor customary; yet it is an important matter when there is something very like a political vacuum in the second nation of the Western Alliance.

The fault is not the British government's. With real courage, although pretty late in the day, Prime Minister Macmillan tried to lead Britain into Europe. If the effort to enter the Common Market had not been blocked, this country would soon have acquired a new sense of purpose and direction.

The fault is not the want of able leaders, either. The younger generation of Conservative politicians are men of impressive ability, as was most recently demonstrated by the exceptionally astute budget presented by the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, Reginald Maudling. As for the Labor Party, the extreme intelligence of Harold Wilson is beyond question, however mysterious his basic aims may remain.

But spend close to a fortnight asking scores of leading Englishmen the simple question, "Where do you go from here?" The sum of the answers is an almost total lack of a present sense of purpose and direction. There is no clear conception of the nature of Britain's world-role now. There are not even any very clear ideas about what Britain's world-role ought to be.

On the extreme right, of course, there are a few who want Britain to go back into the empire-business, just as there are the neutralists and the "let's do business with Moscow" type on the extreme left. But these minorities can be ignored as completely unrepresentative, except that it's still to be seen how much his left-wing supporters will influence the ideas of Harold Wilson.

The great mass of men in the middle, in both of the major parties, have meanwhile been left at a loss by the great and painful changes in Britain's national situation, caused by two World Wars in which Britain played so courageous a part. The position here, in short, is just the contrary of the situation in France, where the French world-role begins to be conceived in exaggerated, almost glory-drunk terms.

It is hard to be precise about such problems, but that does not make the problems any less serious. For one leading nation of the West to have highly exaggerated ideas about where it is going, and for another leading nation to have no ideas at all on this point, can prove to be exceedingly damaging and dangerous.

It must be added that in a measure, at any rate, the fault lies in Washington. Nothing in the Western Alliance can fall into place until the American policy-makers recognize and accept the consequences of the resurgence of Europe.

In this respect, President Kennedy and his advisors have gone much further than President Eisenhower did. Yet a great deal of the old governness-attitude towards Europe still survives, especially in the area of defense policy. That survival, in turn, gave rise to the fears that the British, with their special relationship to the Americans, would enter Europe only as an American Trojan horse.

In London, the search for a world-role, and in Washington the search for a modernized, more stable form of the Western Alliance, will both fail unless the European resurgence is squarely faced, together with all its implications. In this respect, the Anglo-Saxon powers, as Gen. de Gaulle is fond of calling us, ought to be moving forward together.

Such an approach will not be easy. It demands, above all, very difficult decisions about nuclear policy which the British are particularly reluctant to take, if one may judge by their schizophrenic handling of the NATO multilateral force idea.

But if the Americans and British take this kind of approach to Europe, Gen. de Gaulle will hardly be able to convince the other Europeans that he is the sole guarantee of their independence. A reformed but no less strong Western Alliance will gradually take shape, and Britain will find her role again within this modernized framework.

Letters To The Editor

Sir:

I've been "thinking thoughts" on the "Frostburg Case."

When licentious filth masquerades under the guise of "academic freedom," it is high time for Americans to call a halt to the inner moral rot that saps the strength of our national distinctiveness. If we allow "beatniks" to dictate our cultural standards and mores, Khrushchev won't need to "bury us"; we will have predated on our own funeral!

What is maturity? Certainly it is not measured by chronological age. Neither does formal education spell maturity. Maturity is the willingness to abide by the consequences of one's own moral choices and decisions. Maturity reflects growth in understanding of one's own cultural involvement in the present mad mille of our faltering era. If any person, regardless of age or erudition, disavows moral restraints and responsibility—he is immature!

My support is wholeheartedly behind educational leaders who are courageous enough to come to grips with "immaturity" and hurl down a challenge to irresponsibility.

Emotional Disturbances Spell Trouble For Aged

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

distress shifts about in the abdomen and occasionally becomes painful, especially when gas distends the bowel. Rumbling and gurgling are pronounced, particularly when eating or shortly afterward.

In many instances, gas stems from abnormal carbohydrate fermentation and relief follows omitting these foods from the diet. This means no potatoes, macaroni, spaghetti, cake, candy, and dry cereals. One slice of bread is allowed at each meal.

On the other hand, when gas is caused by proteins, the older should not eat beans of any kind, peas, nuts, eggs, or sweet potatoes. If dietary measures fail, the individual may obtain relief through the use of various enzymes such as Trulase, Pancreatin, or other digestants.

Excessive intestinal gas is so common it can be regarded as normal in oldsters. The ensuing difficulty to overcome is the loss of tone of the muscles involved in the act of defecation. The laxative habit is becoming a less common cause but is still prevalent. Other possibilities include poor dietary habits involving insufficient bulk, an inadequate fluid intake, and failure to heed or signal.

Your guess is as good as mine. All these products may have a common chemical to which you are overly sensitive.

ITCHING IN DIABETES
A. G. writes: Is itching a bad sign in a diabetic?

REPLY
Yes, in that it may indicate the disease is not under control. But itching has numerous causes, as described in our leaflet on this subject. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on itchy skin.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES
G. B. writes: Can fruits be substituted for vegetables in an adult's diet?

REPLY
Yes, if you don't mind the lack of variety. Some vegetables have more carbohydrates, vitamins, minerals, water, and calories than some fruits, and vice versa.

MEAT AND BLOOD
N. T. writes: Could eating rare meat cause blood to appear in the stools?

REPLY
Not visible blood. On the other hand, chemical tests for blood are positive when the stools are tested after eating rare meat.

A brain tumor, abscess, hemorrhage, or clot.

AMERIASIS IN TROPICS
L. B. writes: I had amebiasis about 15 years ago. Would I be likely to contract the disease again if I visited a tropical climate?

REPLY
Yes, if you are exposed to amoebic infection. This disease does not confer everlasting immunity.

According to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made to those returning stamped envelope to enclosed address. Letters not so accented Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Chaupeurs who drive a certain famous and expensive make of British motor car are given a booklet of special instructions to raise American's eyebrows.

One paragraph, for example, tells how every rank of royalty is to be addressed. Another lists the kind of trees under which the car must NEVER be parked (droppings that might mar the paintwork and all that sort of thing). And the final instruction reads: "Always drive directly to the front of ANY line. When you are driving a car manufactured by US, THEY WILL MAKE ROOM FOR YOU!"

Traffic officer (to pedestrian just bowled over by a hit-and-run driver): "Did you get that driver's number?"

Pedestrian: "No, but I'd recognize my wife's laugh anywhere!"

Congressmen Need Code Of Ethics, Watchdog Committees To Enforce It

By Drew Pearson

Abe Multer, (D-N.Y.), has been reported in this column.

Therefore, every member of Congress who participates in a law firm should be required to register its clients with the Clerks of the House and Senate.

INVESTMENTS OF CONGRESS-MEN—Though the Secretary of Defense required to divest himself of financial holdings in companies which do business with the government, and the Secretary of the Treasury is required to file his investments with the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, members of Congress do not follow the same rule they apply to others.

They should be required to file their investments with the Speaker and the Vice President, who in turn should appoint a watchdog committee of five members in each House to rule on any malpractice. The financial returns would not be made public unless a conflict of interest was established by the watchdog board of ethics.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT OF RULE 12—This is the rule which forbids a member of Congress to vote on legislation in which he has a pecuniary interest. In recent years, this rule has been laughed at. When Sen. Wayne Morse, (D-Ore.), reminded the late Sen. Bob Kerr, (D-Okl.), that under Rule 12 he should not vote on the natural gas bill because of his own investments in Kerr, Kerr exploded in anger and proceeded to vote anyway.

The Senate and House are not subject to outside prosecution if they violate this rule. The only body they have policing them is an alert press. So they should create a board of ethics to enforce their rules.

AUDIT OF ACCOUNTS—The Congress is the only agency of government which does not have to submit to a check by an independent agency in the expenditure of funds. Congress checks the Executive Branch of government through the General Accounting Office, but no one outside of Congress checks Congressional funds.

Expenditures of Congress, therefore, should be audited by the General Accounting Office.

Censure Of Congress

It is significant that only twice in the past four decades has a member of Congress been officially criticized by its own body.

These were the case of Sen. Hiram Bingham, (R-Conn.), who permitted a lobbyist for the Connecticut Manufacturers Association to sit in a secret committee meeting on tariff-fixing; and the case of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, (R-Wis.).

One problem is that the machinery of censure is too cumbersome and too difficult to enforce. But if each House set up its own watchdog committee it could operate without suspending the entire business of Congress to vote censure. With two watchdog committees in operation, there would probably be much less need to enforce discipline.

This column has been writing about Congressional misbehavior for about twenty years and has named names and printed facts which led to the criminal convictions of Andrew J. May, (D-Ky.), Parnell Thomas, (R-N.J.), Walter Breckin, (R-Ohio), and Ernest K. Bramblett, (R-Calif.). This column also revealed the operations of Senator McCarthy in regard to the Army when his former investigator, David Schine, was a private at Fort Dix, N. J. This led to McCarthy's censure by the Senate.

However, this column has also paid tribute to the many honest and dedicated public servants in Congress who work long hours in trying to make the complicated wheels of democracy work. It is not fair to them—and I believe they are in the great majority—to have their reputations spoiled by the Congressmen who do cheat.

Now is the time for Congress to set up its own standards of ethics and its own watchdog committee to enforce those ethics for its own protection and the reputation of a legislative system which must not remain in disrepute.

Frostburg Water Lines Survey Done

FROSTBURG — John Tomkins, engineer for the Pitometer Associates, has completed a survey of the water distribution system for Frostburg.

The work of checking all lines and valves was completed in approximately four weeks, according to Tomkins, who said very few leaks were found in the system. All main valves on distribution lines were checked and it was here, he said, that "trouble" was found.

Through the years with different water superintendents and city administrations main valves were purchased and installed from various companies. Some of these valves were "right handed" and some "left handed" meaning that they were turned that direction to close them and the opposite to open them. With changes of superintendents records were lost of the location of the left handed valves which are not standard for use today. As a result in later years new men tried to operate all valves in a right handed manner.

Tomkins said that he has found numerous valves closed on main lines that should have been open, some were defective others were just closed. The defective valves will be repaired immediately and when completed should correct low pressures and dirty water situations in some parts of the town, Tomkins said.

A detailed and complete report of the survey will be mailed to the city as soon as it is completed and printed.

Barrister, Now Actor, In TV Play

It's not often that a television drama can claim a real-life lawyer as a guest performer. But tonight The Defenders will star Leo Genn, once an outstanding barrister, and now one of England's most distinguished actors. Naturally, he doesn't play a lawyer in this legal series. He plays a scientist who thinks he is above the law.

Genn, a graduate of Cambridge University, was "called to the bar" in 1928 and was a practicing barrister, English term for courtroom attorney, until 1930. He had always been interested in the theater, and took part in several amateur productions before deciding to switch careers.

For the next nine years he worked on the stage and in the movies, both at home and on our side of the Atlantic. He was part of London's Old Vic company for several seasons.

When war broke out in 1939, Mr. Genn joined the Royal Artillery, and soon became a lieutenant colonel. Because of his background in law, he was assigned to SHAEF, Special Enquiries Branch, and was put in command of the number one War Crimes Investigation Team. This is the group that conducted enquiries into the Belsen Concentration Camp.

HAZEL AND FRIEND—It's just like Hazel to get a new Easter bonnet for the Easter bunny. Shirley Booth, star of the NBC Thursday night series, is particularly conscious of the holiday this year — she is the National Chairman of the Easter Seal Drive.

Sarnoff To Receive National CCM Award

Robert W. Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the National Broadcasting Company, will receive a special award from the National Council of Catholic Men next week in Washington in recognition of NBC's "33 years of creative leadership and cooperation in religious broadcasting."

The award will be presented to Sarnoff on Monday at a special preview of "I Am With You," an unprecedented four-part history of the Catholic Church and its Ecumenical Councils.

The presentation will be made to Sarnoff at the Preview Theater of the Motion Picture Association of America at 7:30 p. m., before dignitaries of the church, representatives of the United States and foreign governments and executives of the National Broadcasting Company.

The preview also will honor the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, archbishop of Washington and chairman of the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The National Council of Catholic Men and the National Broadcasting Company began producing "The Catholic Hour" on radio in 1930 and on television in 1961. In terms of design, content and scope, "I Am With You"—to be broadcast on the NBC-TV Network Sundays, May 5, 12, 19 and 26 from 1:30 to 2 p. m.—is the most extensive project ever undertaken jointly by the two organizations.

"Hootenanny" is television's first regular folk music program. Emceed by Jack Linkletter, it is produced on various college campuses around the country before student audiences. The shows feature top vocal and instrumental talent in the folk song field.

Ferrell Emeritus Life Associate Of Accountants

LUKE — Rymer Ferrell, recently retired office manager of West Virginia Pulp and Paper's Luke mill, has been elected to the status of emeritus life associate of the National Association of Accountants. The life membership awarded in recognition of his 16 years service with the association and the contributions he made to it while serving as a member.

Ferrell will receive the award at a general meeting of the Hagerstown chapter of the National Association of Accountants to be held in the Shenandoah Hotel, Martinsburg, April 18. Horace Nichols, present accounting manager of the Luke Mill, will accompany Ferrell for the presentation.

After 45 years service with West Virginia Pulp and Paper, 14 of those as office manager, Ferrell retired January 1, 1963. He had been in charge of the major accounting functions at Luke until shortly before retirement as well as handling a wide range of administrative duties.

Although Cumberland does not have a local chapter, Ferrell maintained membership in the Hagerstown chapter and participated in the activities of that group since December 1, 1946.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our many relatives, neighbors and friends for their kindness to us during the illness and death of our dear beloved husband and father, R. (Sweetie) Sampson. We especially wish to thank the Rev. William Sales, the pall-bearers, those who sent floral offerings, send cards or donated cars.

Wife and Daughters

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Earl E. (Duke) Sandusky, who passed away 20 years ago today, April 13, 1943. We do not need this special day to bring us to our minds. The days we do not think of you are very hard to find. They say time heals all sorrows and help us to forget. But time has far only proved how much we miss him yet. Sadly missed by wife, Son, and Daughter

Forest Fire Danger Acute In Two States

Drivers Urged To Douse Cigarettes

The district forester's office is again concerned with the danger of forest and brush fires due to the continued dry spell and blustery winds.

W. A. C. Irwin, district forester, pointed out last night that the critical stage has been reached in this area and residents are being asked to cooperate in advertising fires.

Brook Bodkin, senior forest supervisor, reported last night that no forest or brush fires occurred in Garrett, Allegany or Washington counties during the past couple of days.

If the weather warms up today or tomorrow, foresters can "look for trouble," according to Mr. Irwin who said there will be quite a few children playing in wooded areas and many motorists will be driving along the woods-lined highways.

Every precaution should be taken in extinguishing cigarettes which could cause serious forest fires.

State foresters throughout Maryland reported 13 grass and woods fires in 10 counties but none was classified as serious.

The state was swept by a series of fires April 4, several of them major blazes, when the fire index reached a figure of 170 of a possible 200 in some areas.

Assistant West Virginia State Forester Asher Kelly said last night that 40 new fires were reported during the day.

He said 17 of the new fires were under control and that the remainder would be under control this morning.

Kelly said a forecast of fair and mild weather for today means that "there will be continued fire danger" in West Virginia.

"We are urging the people to do only that burning which is necessary and to be very careful," Mr. Kelly said.

SCS Technician Commended On Photo Series

E. Stuart Delbrook, conservation technician of the local Soil Conservation Service staff has received a letter from Edward R. Keil, state conservator, College Park, commanding him for an article and series of pictures he entered in the 1962 SCS Photo Service contest.

Mr. Delbrook submitted pictures and an article about a conservation problem in Western Maryland that is alien to the rest of the state. It concerns the former rich coal field area of Georges Creek Valley which is nearly worked out, but water still flows from the abandoned mine workings.

The problem, the article says, is that the water appears to be clear but as it flows over the hillside it spreads and all vegetation in its path is killed by the acids contained in the water. The ground surface is covered by a crust resembling rusted metal and the earth under the crust is saturated to a depth of about 18 inches.

Soil technicians were consulted about the problem. According to the article an attempt was made to use a bulldozer to construct a ditch to confine the water to a safe channel but the ground was too soft for the heavy equipment. The technicians then used ditching dynamite to construct the channel.

By keeping the acid mine off the land its killing effect will not spread and Mr. Delbrook says it is felt that in a few years the acids will leach out of the now barren area and cover can again be established.

County Group On Aging Gets Requests For Booklet

As a result of a small article printed in a publication of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Allegany County Commission on Problems of the Aging has received requests from all over the United States for copies of a booklet it published entitled "A Guide for Senior Citizens to Resources in Allegany County."

Robert D. Peebles, president of the county group, said he has re-

ABL Construction Under Way

Shown above is the construction site of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory's rocket research laboratory and office building being constructed by subcontractors, Missiles Sites, Inc. Approximately 30 feet of earth and rock, mostly rock, has been cut from the top of the knoll behind the ABL school house area by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company. About 100,000 cubic yards of material were moved in order to level off the mountain top for the 350-by-750-foot area, which will accommodate the building and parking lot. In the center can be seen some of the foundation for the structure being done by Missiles Sites, Inc. Foundation work is scheduled for completion by May 1, when structural steel will arrive for construction of the building.

Care In Choice Of Firm For Termite Work Urged

Never permit yourself to be rushed into purchasing termite control.

This advice was given yesterday by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, which noted that Spring is the time when so-called "termite experts" prey upon victims of the insects of the order Isoptera.

Termite damage, the Chamber said, usually develops slowly and is not an emergency in the sense that a home will fall down if the damage is not checked immediately.

The Chamber, said manager Robert C. Petersen, has had a number of inquiries about companies offering to perform termite control work.

He said it is vital that home owners deal only with reputable companies which have the knowledge, equipment and trained workers who are able to offer effective methods for preventing termite damage and halting the spread of the white ants if they are present.

The Chamber said the firm chosen should be one which has a good reputation and is established here, so the guarantee usually given with such work can be made good if first efforts are not successful.

Mr. Petersen said a guarantee means nothing unless the company is willing, available and adequate to carry out the promises it makes.

Another reason to deal with a reputable local firm, the Chamber pointed out, is that the layman is not in a position to check on the quality of the chemicals used or whether the treatment has been proved to be effective.

The Better Business Bureau said it makes little difference to a crooked operator whether termites are actually present, as they have been known to quote prices for work where no termites are present.

In addition to the regular office hours scheduled, Mr. Millican will be responsible for constituent work throughout the Sixth Congressional District and will be available for special appointments.

Rep. Mathias said Mr. Millican's duties will emphasize the coordination of activities between district offices and the Congressmen's Washington office.

Nuzum Named To Area Post

Two members of the City Engineering Department attended the organizational meeting of the Building Officials Conference of the Upper Ohio Valley in Pittsburgh Thursday.

They were C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, and George Scarlet, acting building inspector for the City of Cumberland.

Mr. Nuzum was elected a member of the executive committee of the conference which is being formed to improve the practice of building and allied inspection activities.

All of the cities represented are interested in urban renewal, and one of the requirements for that federal program is an active and effective inspection program.

Present were several representatives of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, under which urban renewal falls, and all stressed the importance of enforcing codes adopted under the urban renewal program.

Rotary Will Meet

Phone Company And Union Fail To Agree

Another Meeting Scheduled Tuesday

By United Press International

Negotiations in Winchester, Va., Friday failed to bring an end to the five-day old strike of the General Telephone Co. of the Southwest, which has affected subscribers in five counties in West Virginia's eastern panhandle.

Federal mediator James Holden of Washington met with company officials and representatives of the Electrical Workers Union, AFL-CIO.

Another meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. Tuesday in Winchester.

About 80 members of the union's Local 2035 in the Charles Town and Romney districts left their jobs Monday after negotiations for a new contract bogged down.

The strike has affected at least a dozen towns in Grant, Hardy, Jefferson, Mineral and Hampshire counties, forcing the company to import supervisory personnel from offices in North Carolina and Tennessee to handle switchboards.

The union is seeking a 10-cent an hour wage raise at the top pay level, plus an alternative of hospital benefits or an eighth paid holiday per year.

Boy Starts Brush Fire

A youngster playing with matches was blamed yesterday for a brush fire which burned about a quarter of an acre of land in the rear of 903 National Highway, firemen said.

Volunteers of the LaVale Fire Company received a call about 1:45 a.m. An investigation disclosed that a boy, about three or four years old, had been playing with matches and caused the fire which threatened a nearby home.

Firemen talked to the lad and his parents and warned them of the danger of brush fires, especially during the prevailing dry weather.

Area Coin Club Will Meet Tuesday

The Western Maryland Coin Club, sponsored by the City Recreation Department, will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.

Members are being urged to come to the meeting early so they may participate in the pre-meeting course.

He will give one of the critiques during an industrial case history discussion.

Summer Jobs Are Open In Rec Department

Applications Will Be Ready Monday

The Cumberland Recreation Department will begin issuing applications for summer positions at City Hall Monday.

C. Eugene Mason, director, said about 38 positions will be filled in the playground, ballfield, swimming pool and tennis programs. All applicants must be residents of the city of Cumberland.

Needed for the summer playground program will be 15 persons to serve as playground leaders and specialists on the 14 city-operated playgrounds.

The playground positions are open to young men and women, who must be at least 18 years old. Applicants must be able to organize, conduct and supervise numerous play activities, and experience in group activities is desirable. A number of teachers and college students in the recreation field are usually included in the staff.

Positions Are Open

Twelve ballfield leaders will be hired to serve as umpires and direct Little League baseball games. The positions are open to boys who must have a good knowledge of baseball and preferably be at least 16.

About 10 youths will be selected as lifeguards and cashier-checkers at the Constitution Park swimming pool. Lifeguard applicants must hold Red Cross lifesaving certificates and preferably be at least 16. The cashier-checker position is open to girls who must be responsible workers and preferably be at least 16.

One tennis instructor will be employed. Boys or girls may apply and must be experienced and have a thorough knowledge of the game.

Pool Opens May 30

Mr. Mason said swimming pool workers should be available for work by May 30, when the Constitution Park pool opens.

Playground workers must be available the week of June 17, as they will be required to attend the playground institute held that week in preparation for the opening of the playgrounds on June 24.

Ballfield leaders will be needed about June 17.

Mr. Mason said all former summer workers who wish to be considered must apply again.

The applications will be available at the Recreation Department office during office hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and must be returned by May 15.

Early application is desirable so the department can have time to screen all applicants.

Work UnderWay On Dial Center At Kitzmiller

Work is progressing on the replacement of the dial equipment in the Kitzmiller exchanges of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, according to Richard K. Dayton, commercial manager of the Cumberland office.

Mr. Dayton said the present equipment will be replaced by newer and more modern equipment. However, the changeover cannot be made until the new dial equipment has been installed and tested to determine if it will function properly.

An addition to the existing dial office in Kitzmiller has been completed and Western Electric Company installers are placing the new equipment. New cable is being placed outside the office to provide better service for Kitzmiller and Blaine, W. Va.

The changeover is scheduled to take place in July at the same time new directories are delivered to all Garrett County customers.

All customers in Blaine and Kitzmiller will be advised by letter of the actual date and time of the change.

CURA Will Meet

The Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency will hold a regular meeting Thursday, April 18, at 1:15 p.m. in City Hall.

Carroll Combs, seven, of 909 Bedford Street, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon with a fractured left arm he received in a fall while playing.

Hearing Uncertain

The next regular meeting of the board of trustees will be held May 29, but Dr. Pullen has not said whether the four teachers involved in the case would be given a hearing as was requested by the Frostburg Chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

The teachers involved are Dr. Edmund S. Skellings, L. Norris Merchant, John Cole and Francis L. Ireland, all members of the English Department at FSTC.

They contend they are not being rehired next fall because of their
